INTENTIONAL DESIGN

For designer Kristin Hazen, the most beautiful spaces are realized through a collaborative process of discovery.

A boutique sensibility and exacting attention to detail set Kristin Hazen Design apart from the crowd in Phoenix, a reputation that's traveling coast to coast via the firm's ever-growing national portfolio of stunning projects. For founder and principal designer Kristin Hazen, that distinction stands at the very heart of the spirit of inclusivity and collaboration she fosters with her clients, anchoring the company's ethos of bringing a unique and highly personalized approach to every facet of a project.

"There are so many talented designers in the Phoenix area and nationally for clients to choose from," says Hazen. "Not only do we provide great results, but we also cultivate a start-to-finish experience focused on our clients' goals. My objective is for it to be a happy, positive experience that culminates in a space that truly reflects them."

With every one-of-a-kind design, Hazen's client-driven design process is an intentional, collaborative journey of discovery. Whether a client knows exactly what they want or isn't sure where to start, she acts as a guide and advisor, defining the vision for a space as she and her team skillfully manifest a beautiful environment.

"Ultimately it's about giving our clients the space to discover what is beautiful to them," says Hazen. "Our job is to find their vision, then bring our creativity and expertise to the table. That's how dream homes come to life."
